Current Position

This is the Destination Management Plan (DMP) for Greater Lincolnshire. It was produced following an extensive consultation exercise with the tourism sector in 2022/23.

A Destination Management Plan is a strategy for managing a destination effectively. It outlines how to focus on the needs of visitors, local communities and businesses. Through coordinating effort it aims to enhance the visitor experience, while ensuring sustainable development and economic benefits.

This DMP gives our aspiration for the visitor economy in Greater Lincolnshire for the next five years, in the short, medium and long term. All local authorities have agreed a partnership approach and to move forward under the over-arching banner of Visit Lincolnshire. Its attract and disperse model complimenting existing local brands.

In consultation with Visit England, Greater Lincolnshire intends reapplying for LVEP status. The following criteria will apply to our thinking:

- We concentrate on 'business as usual', ensuring that as a priority we are supporting the visitor economy at all times
- Re-use existing data and consultation, there is no need to re-do work that we were all involved in

- VisitLincolnshire.com was entirely rebuilt during the covid lockdown and is going from strength to strength. In 2025/26 it delivered an impressive 21.9% conversion rate to a booking

- The Lincolnshire themes form the core of marketing initiatives and are developed working hand in hand
- Any proposed tourism model must be entirely appropriate for Greater Lincolnshire. Experience tells us that a subscription model, when the county is dominated by micro-businesses doesn't work

There is a strong commitment across the sector to ensure a thriving and resilient tourist industry and that Lincolnshire will be a destination of choice that offers a great visitor experience.

Throughout this Destination Management Plan Greater Lincolnshire refers to Lincolnshire County Council, North Lincolnshire, North East Lincolnshire, East Lindsey, West Lindsey, City of Lincoln, North Kesteven, South Kesteven, Boston and South Holland. When the STEAM figures are quoted these are the figures for Greater Lincolnshire. VisitLincolnshire.com covers the whole of Greater Lincolnshire.

Greater Lincolnshire

What is it Like?

A big, very rural county with a long coastline and a beautiful cathedral city at its heart. From the Humber to The Wash, it is around 100 miles north to south and 50 miles from west to east.

COUNTRYSIDE

The rolling Wolds AONB, the mysterious Fens, waterways and the long spine of the Lincoln Edge. This changing landscape with its fertile soils is farming country – the nation’s food basket in fact.

NATURE TOURISM

Walking, cycling, nature reserves, seal and birdwatching. The 124 mile King Charles III England Coast Path has recently completed in Lincolnshire and the Viking Way is our other popular long-distance walk.

HOLIDAY COAST

Busy and fun resorts like Skegness, Cleethorpes and Mablethorpe with quieter holiday villages like Sutton on Sea and Chapel St Leonards dotted in between.

WILD COAST

The majority of Lincolnshire's long coastline of huge sandy beaches and nature reserves is deserted but internationally recognised for its biodiversity. On the East Atlantic Migration Flyway making this one of the UK's premier bird watching counties.

HERITAGE & CULTURE

Roman remains, medieval castles and grand country houses that are proving popular with today's TV and Film Directors. Maritime heritage and famous Lincolnshire heroes include the Mayflower Pilgrims, the Australian explorers, Tennyson and John Wesley. Museums, art galleries and archives complete the mix and ancestral tourism is a growing area.

MILITARY HERITAGE

Lincolnshire's military heritage stretches back to World War I and the building of the first tank and the founding of the RAF. During World War II Lincolnshire became known as Bomber County and its aviation heritage is a continuing draw.

CITY OF LINCOLN

Ancient Lincoln with its cathedral and castle begun by William the Conqueror, perched on high overlooking the city. The aptly named Steep Hill connects the uphill area to the Brayford Pool and River Witham that flows through Lincoln.

VILLAGES AND MARKET TOWNS

Pretty villages dominated by their medieval churches and charming historic towns like Stamford and Louth with weekly markets and independent shops.

FUN TIMES

Plenty of attractions both inside and out to keep everybody entertained. Heritage, thrills and spills, adventure activities or just that fun day on the beach. Lincoln's night-time economy, Steam Punk Festival, Butlin's Big Weekenders and Music Festivals at venues like Lincoln Castle, Lost Village and Meridian Showground attract big spending audiences.

FOOD AND DRINKS

This rural county is all about producing food. Lincolnshire sausages of course, but also PGI status traditional smoked fish from Grimsby, plum bread and Poacher cheese. Breweries include Batemans run by 4th and 5th generations and there are gin distilleries offering popular tours.

Further Development of Opportunities

International Tourism

Lincolnshire has strong heritage links with both the USA and Australia. Word of mouth from businesses over the last 30 years have indicated the importance of these two markets and this is confirmed by the Google analytics for visitlincolnshire.com which consistently has USA and Australia as first and second for overseas viewers of the website.

US connections are largely Captain John Smith (Pocahontas); Mayflower Pilgrims; Exodus from Boston Lincolnshire to Boston Mass (400th anniversary 2030); Anne Hutchinson from Alford (puritan and part of the Boston Mass. community); John Wesley and Methodism; various WWII connections (Grantham, Eagle Squadrons, planning for Operations Market Garden and Overlord).

Australian connections are largely through the explorers Matthew Flinders, Sir Joseph Banks, Sir John Franklin and George Bass. Flinders is particularly well known to Australians.

The US connection offers the most immediate opportunity with the 2030 anniversary. Although it is most relevant to Boston, it makes sense to offer to any visitor from the States a 'full package' of all our American connections, making the offer irresistible. With four years to go there is time to put the appropriate planning in place. Many American journalists were achieved for Lincoln Castle/Magna Carta with this sort of timing. Lincolnshire/Australian connections will be given greater prominence.

Seasonality

As in many parts of England the tourist offer is still too seasonal in Lincolnshire. There are quality products that Lincolnshire has that can be used out of season as an attractor.

Traditionally the tourist industry, particularly on the coast, has used the winter period to 'rest and repair', but there is increasing evidence that as visitors change their patterns of behaviour, so businesses would like to see more consistent trading.

The autumn period can be strong for short breaks for those without children; events like Halloween have grown hugely; Christmas has become a much longer festival with markets and lighting events from November onwards and performing very strongly according to VisitLincolnshire.com Google analytics.

VisitLincolnshire.com will continue to develop the above events, but it is felt that the best opportunities for growth are through nature tourism. Lincolnshire has seen the completion of the 124 miles of the King Charles III England Coast Path (KCIIECP) and interest in its new web pages has been strong. The KCIIECP is likely to become the 'must do' walk for the bucket list. In Lincolnshire this walk exactly correlates with its coastal birdwatching offer, which can be termed as good as anywhere in the UK.

From Alkborough Flats and Far Ings in the north to RSPB Frampton Marsh in the south the Lincolnshire Coast can offer a top-quality birdwatching experience which is at its strongest in the spring, autumn and winter.

Rarities like bitterns, bearded tits, cranes, glossy ibis and black winged stilts; spectacles of thousands of wetland birds such as knot taking to the air or starling murmurations; and where there are birds of this variety and number, birds of prey aren't far behind. The Big Five is an achievable daily target, but going for ten raptor species in a day is within range. Lincolnshire has an accessible coastline, a great new path and some of the best birdwatching about – plenty to shout about.

The seals at Donna Nook are also an out of season treasure (late Oct-early Jan) but needs careful handling with the area not coping with large number of visitors well. Cycle Lincolnshire will be supported by a coordinated plan and cycling routes and trails will be brought together.

Segmentation

Lincolnshire's main markets are 50+ couples (no children) on short breaks and families with young children. There are other markets where we have potential to do better. Through Visitlincolnshire.com we have been experimenting with presenting content to different segments of the market. Things to do with small children on a rainy day, Things to do for History Buffs etc and these can be expanded ad infinitum.

Group & Travel Trade

Engaging with the travel trade (ie buyers for group travel, agents and tour operators) is a valuable route to market for tourism suppliers and providers of product. This is in addition to direct to consumer / visitor activity.

Trade buyers require different approaches and pricing structures to 'direct to consumer' activity. Lincolnshire visitor economy businesses would benefit from guidance and upskilling to develop product suitable for the travel trade. Business Lincolnshire are able to fund some workshops and a toolkit.

Wedding Destination

The wedding market has changed since covid and smaller DIY weddings have become more popular. For many Lincolnshire businesses the wedding market is important and many have adjusted their offer to reflect changes in the market.

Discussions are ongoing with the Registry Service, who see the potential of growth of Lincolnshire as a wedding destination – the county already offers historic houses and quirky venues like barns and water mills. They would also like to see more businesses registered as wedding venues. In engagement with tourism businesses, many have expressed interest in being involved.

Tourism Officers Group saw the opportunity as in two stages. Firstly to hold workshops in conjunction with the Registry Service so that businesses understand the positives and negatives of being a wedding venue. Secondly to present Lincolnshire as a wedding destination and how we adjust our content to make the process of holding a wedding here easier.

Priority Themes

The previous DMP identified the following development priorities. It had Inclusivity and Sustainability as cross cutting themes.

Strategy, Place,
Investment

Engagement,
Partnership and
Business Support

Skills and Careers

Data and

Identity

Product and Experience

Governance Model & Engagement with Businesses

Visitor Economy Governance Model

A Group convened by the GLCCA to lead a Greater Lincolnshire tourism partnership

Engagement with Businesses

Engagement with businesses happens by a variety of means, experience suggests that different vehicles work better for different sized businesses:

Visitor Economy Specialist Adviser – supporting the Business Lincolnshire Growth Hub with 121 business advice

Support from a business's local Tourism Officer

District Partnership events – some annual, others more regular

Visit Lincolnshire Conference

Workshops run by local authorities e.g. England Coast Path, Experiences

Quarterly B2B Newsletter is now monthly

Creation of a private sector sounding board to advise on strategy – made up of cross section of visitor economy businesses

Business Sentiment Survey to become a regular feature

Tourism businesses are incredibly varied: micro-businesses run by a family to national chains.

Experience with the LEP Visitor Economy Board and the Tourism Commission suggests that we need a variety of ways of engaging with tourism businesses; the former was rather passive and the latter was often dominated by the larger businesses.

Businesses do want to know what is going on, but tend to be less interested in meetings in a local government format discussing things like governance.

It is felt that a model which has a whole series of touchpoints is most appropriate to capture everyone's views. All the above will feed into an engagement model which reflects the variety, size and geography of Greater Lincolnshire's Visitor Economy community. It is important that all engagement is documented.
